SHOCKING STABBING AFFRAY. Two Boys Quarrel Over a Girl With Serious Results.

Castle Dale, Emery Co., May 16 .- A serious stabbing affray occurred here last night, at the close of a birthday social given at the home of C. E. Larsen. Two boys, 17 years of age, en-tered into a fight to determine which should escort a young lady home. In the melee Hyrum Petersen stabbed James Everett with a knife, the blade of which, about four inches in length, entered the back of Everett just under the left shoulder blade, causing great the left shoulder blade, causing great loss of blood. The doctor thinks the left lung is cut and if so the chances for Everett's recovery are slight. Petersen was arrested this morning and claims that Everett first truck him with a club but this is demorning and claims that Everett first struck him with a club, but this is denied by all who witnessed the affair. Petersen's father left last week on a mission to Denmark, and his mother is visiting in Ephraim, Sanpete county. Everett's father, Wash Everett, lives in Mt. Pleasant, Sanpete county, but the young man is seing cared for by his sister, Mrs. Robert Lake of this place. Young Petersen bears a bad reputation for a boy and appears to be quite un-concerned. He was to have left this morning for Grand Junction to work in the beet fields.

THE PAROWAN CENSUS.

District Enumerator Gives His Opinion That it is Belittled by Jealousy,

In answer to the article which appeared in last evening's "News" from its Parowan correspondent, claiming a discrepancy of 217 between the government census and an enumeration recently taken by the Parowan city council, Supervisor Pratt submits the following letter received from the local enumerator: Dear Sir—Your communication referring to the alleged discrepancy in the enumeration of the population of Paroway City in this county, also the action of the city council of that city in taking steps to have the alleged error rectified. reached me yesterday. I was not sur-prised at the information contained in he recorder's letter to you, as I had ecently read an account of their action in our local newspaper.

I have to say, however, that in my official labors as enumerator of that district during the taking of the late na-tional census, I used due diligence and took every precaution to procure every living inhabitant in that, as well as every other district entrusted to my care, and spent over half of the time allowed me to enumerate that particu-lar subdivision of my territory, and in so doing I visited every dwelling house in the city. I will say, however, that at that particular time some few of the families residing in Parowan had moved from their permanent place of abode to their summer ranches, located east of their town and in many instances were out of my district, being as I understood attached to the enumeration district east of mine, and belonging to Garfield county, and in which I considered I had no jurisdiction, but considering these particular cases there was not sufficient population to nearly make up the numalleged to have been omitted acfrom my personal knowledge of these families I should hardly think there would be a tenth of "two hundred or more" missed.

I will also add that had I have taken the time to have hunted up these par-ticular families I could not have done the work of my district in the time allotted me, as well as running the risk of having them enumerated in both districts. I will say that the people of my district, particularly in Parowan were, on account of reticence, quite hard on the enumerator, particulraly in re-gard to the agricultural schedule and in nearly every instance it took me from forty to sixty minutes to procure the necessary information. This, together with their scattered con-dition, many of whom resided upon their farms six and eight miles away from the town proper, caused me to use up so much of the time allotted me to make the enumeration of that particular district. I am most cer-tainly at a loss to understand upon arding the alleged error of "two hundred or more names," and shall maintain my official report to you and the de-partment until they prove to the conrary, with the exceptions heretofore

You, of course, understand that under the rules governing my compen-sation, it was to my personal advantage to procure every living inhabitant dur-ing the time prescribed by law for the enumeration, as my compensation was regulated by the number enumerated; so that a wilful neglect would not only criminate me, but would also be a disadvantage to me financially. I have kept no copy of my returns, and don't know whether the published statements as to population of that particular town are correct, and as there is a possibility of errors, other than in my labors as enumerator, I shall await the results of a thorough examination, and will conclude by saying that I visited every residence in the town, and enumerated every person I could find who was eligible. am also certain that none of my population schedules were lost or mislaid. as the sheets and numbers tallied when making up my final report to forward to your office at the close of my labors I shall anxiously await some in orma tion from the results of the demand made by the department upon the coun ty clerk of this county in requesting a "careful and correct statement of the population of the several precincts of the county, referred to in the recorder letter," and as a matter of justice to myself, hope to hear that my enumeration of other precincts outside or eard wan City shall not come so wide of the mark (considering their population), as the alleged error of Parowan's popula-

Trusting that this explanation, which is the very best I can make, will be somewhat satisfactory, I will now close by adding that I shall hold myself in eadiness to go before any tribunal and state under oath my vigilance in the lischarge of my duties as enumerator of district No. 99.

Thinking you may possibly need the recorder's letter to you upon this subject, I return the same, but have taken the liberty of making a copy of it, and will close by saying, that dare I ven-ture an opinion. I would conclude the de proceeding arises through eling of fealousy that was manifested y many over the fact that the num-rous applications from that town were turned down by you, and that two citi-zens of Cedar City were given the positions in the principal districts of the county, a condition that I met quite frequently while making the enumera-You, of course, are at liberty to use this letter as you may think

BUYING A WHOLE COLORADO COUNTY.

ANTANAMAN WANDAMAN ANTANAMAN WANDAMAN WANDAMAN

concern had purchased through the commissioners of Kit Carson county, on the eastern borders of the State of Colorado some 60,000 acres of land created a hubbub in real estate circles. As was stated in this journal the price paid was $18 a quarter section or an average of only twelve cents an acre. The county officials felt that they could better afford to sell the land at this price and receive taxes each year than that they allow the county to own the land and receive no taxes. The history of the settling of this land is interesting. What is now Kit Carson county was first tled under the pre-emption, home-stead and timber culture acis prior to 1887. The influx of settlers from all over the country into that rain-belt

1888 and 1889. As is well remembered under the provision of the pre-emption act the head of any family or any male person over the age of twenty-one years could secure 160 acres of land by settling on it. After living on it for six months proof could be made upon payment to the government of $1.25 an acre and Uncle Sam would then issue a deed thereto. Much land was also taken under the provisions of the homestead act, which was then the same as now. At the time the first pre-emption proofs were being made this land was valued at $2,50 an acre and as the average settler did not nowned saline sea. Price 25 cents, have the necessary $300 with which to postage prepaid. For sale by the Des. make final proof and pay the government he would negotiate a loan on his land of from $300 to $500 and usually contract to pay the amount back in installments, payments being made every six months, with interest at eight

section was very great in the years of per cent per annum. There was no scarcity of loan companies which were very anxious to lend money in these amounts on a quarter section of land. Accordingly loans were made on thousands of quarter sections and it looked as if the loan companies had gilt-edge security. From 1890 there had been plenty of rain each season to raise a fair crop of corn, wheat, oats, etc. That year the crops failed and they experienced their first drouth. This was the beginning of the end of that section as a great agriculterest and payment on loans became due and as the settlers had not raise any crops they found themselves unable to pay either interest or principal on their loans. The result was that a great many who had not taken home steads hiked out that summer and fall for parts unknown and allowed the loan companies to take possession of the forfeited claims.

At this time the agencies had quit making loans on such land. The result was that in the course of a few years these companies found themselves loaded up, as the owners of about onehalf of the county and were paying taxes on the land. This they did for a while, but finally allowed the land to e sold for taxes and as there were no other purchasers the county each year bid in the tax receipts and lately deeds for the same on tax-title. At the tax sale the past spring the com-missioners decided to sell the land to the easterners for the amount of the taxes for the past two years with a guaranthat they would pay the taxes in the future. A great many persons have made homestead proofs on their claims and have paid taxes up to date and will continue to do so. The land recently sold was that which had been foreclosed under mortgage.

Many of the old settlers of that section have stayed there and have turned their attention to cattle raising. They are now independent, having made thousands of dollars from their herds, The buffalo grass that grows there is excellent grazing and no doubt has more nourishment for stock than any other grass that grows. It attains a height of three inches only but it cures itself and is as nourishing in the winter as summer. Thousands of head of cattle now roam the prairies there and are principally owned by the settlers who
